threadname Several threads are distinguished by their names. By default this name is equal to the filename. It can be changed with this option. This is useful if the same file is inserted twice or more times and should not be combined to one single thread. (Default: `threadname= filename` )

The `\includepdfmerge` command uses the same options as `\includepdf` with one exception. The option `pages` has no meaning for `\includepdfmerge`. Instead the page spec ~~specific~~ is used to specify which pages should be inserted. eheh
